

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air a blatantly political so-called "documentary" just days before an important election is a clear illustration of the dangers of media consolidation.

By its actions, Sinclair has revealed that it has no interest in fairness, balance, or diversity in the media. Instead, Sinclair is pursuing its own agenda, which is to manipulate the electoral process to ensure further monopolization of the airwaves. This would be disastrous for our democracy: a corporate "Big Brother" is just as scary as a government one.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to tighten media ownership rules, not loosen them. Thank you.
